Report on The Sanitary Napkin Donation Drive in collaboration with NSS unit

From 12th to 16th December 2022, a Sanitary Napkin Donation Drive was organized in Kasarali Village, Vaitarna, in collaboration with the NSS unit. The aim of the drive was to promote menstrual hygiene and to provide sanitary napkins to girls and women who may not have access to them due to financial constraints.

The drive was conducted by a team of volunteers, who set up donation boxes in various locations throughout the village, including schools, community centres, and local shops. The volunteers also went door-to-door to collect donations of sanitary napkins from individuals and families.

Over the course of the five-day drive, the NSS unit and the volunteers collected a significant number of sanitary napkins, which were then distributed to girls and women in the village. In addition to the distribution of sanitary napkins, the drive also included awareness sessions on menstrual hygiene, where volunteers educated girls and women on the importance of maintaining good menstrual hygiene practices.

The drive was well-received by the community, and the NSS unit received positive feedback from the beneficiaries. The drive was successful in raising awareness on the importance of menstrual hygiene and in providing a much-needed resource to girls and women in the village who may not have had access to it otherwise.

In conclusion, the Sanitary Napkin Donation Drive was a successful initiative to promote menstrual hygiene and provide a necessity to girls and women in the village. The drive highlighted the importance of community-led initiatives in addressing critical issues like menstrual hygiene and the role that organizations like the NSS can play in making a positive impact in the lives of people.
