Introduction:

On 7th July 2025, the Research and Development Cell of Shree L.R. Tiwari Degree College of Arts, Commerce, and Science organized an insightful session on “Accelerators/Incubation-opportunities for students and faculties-Early-stage Entrepreneurs.” The program aimed to create awareness among students, budding entrepreneurs, and faculty about the critical role of Accelerators/Incubation-opportunities for students and faculties to provide an opportunity in early stage of businesses, especially for start-ups.

Session Objectives:

1. To Introduce the Concept of Incubators and Accelerators

- Explain the fundamental differences between incubation and acceleration models.
- Illustrate the structure, funding models, and support systems available through such programs.

2. To Promote Entrepreneurial Thinking among Students and Faculty

- Encourage the exploration of innovative ideas and start up creation.
- Inspire participants to transition from academic learning to practical entrepreneurship.

3. To Provide Awareness of Early-Stage Start-up Support Systems

- Highlight government and private incubation initiatives available in India.
- Share eligibility criteria, application processes, and success stories.

4. To Guide on Institutional Support & Networking Platforms

- Showcase how colleges and R&D cells can collaborate with incubators.
- Discuss opportunities for mentorship, prototyping, and co-working spaces.

5. To Foster Faculty Involvement in Start-up Ecosystem

- Emphasize the role of faculty as co-innovators and research mentors.
- Promote participation in technology transfer, patenting, and start-up mentorship.

Session Outcomes

1. Understanding of Incubation & Acceleration Models

Participants gained a clear understanding of how accelerators and incubators function in the start-up lifecycle.

2. Increased Entrepreneurial Intent Among Students

Students were encouraged to identify and nurture their start-up ideas with institutional backing.

3. Improved Knowledge of Available Resources

Attendees became aware of the various national and institutional incubation schemes (e.g., Atal Innovation Mission, Start-up India, NIDHI, etc.).

4. Enhanced Readiness to Participate in Startup Ecosystems

Faculty and students showed interest in exploring grant proposals, seed funding, and collaborative projects.

5. Motivation to Integrate Innovation with Education

The session inspired integration of research, innovation, and entrepreneurship into academic curricula and project work.

Q.1 How would you rate the expertise and communication of the speaker?

Interpretation:

How would you rate the diversity and expertise of the Speaker person? (Scale: 1 to 5 or Excellent to Poor)

31 responses

The analysis of responses indicates that nearly half the participants rated the speaker with a score of 4 or 5, signifying high to very high levels of expertise and effective communication. A moderate portion rated the speaker at 3, indicating an average experience. Only a few responses fell in the lower rating categories (1 or 2), suggesting that while the majority appreciated the speaker's delivery and depth, there is room to improve engagement through more diversified content or relatable examples.

Q.2 Was the workshop content relevant to your needs as an entrepreneur/startup?

Was the workshop content relevant to your needs as an entrepreneur/startup?

31 responses

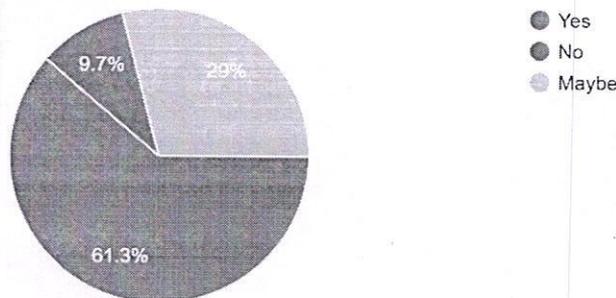

Interpretation:

A significant number of participants (48.3%) responded “Yes”, showing that the content addressed their entrepreneurial interests effectively. Additionally, 31% selected “Somewhat”, indicating that while they found the session generally useful, they would have appreciated more targeted or advanced startup-related insights. A smaller segment (20.7%) selected “No,” possibly reflecting a mismatch in expectations or a need for sector-specific discussions. Overall, this suggests that the session had broad relevance, with scope for tailoring content for niche entrepreneurial goals.

Q.3 Did the workshop meet your expectations?

Interpretation:

More than half of the respondents (51.7%) confirmed that the workshop met their expectations, highlighting a successful alignment of content with audience needs. About 38% answered "Maybe", reflecting mixed sentiments—likely due to expectations that were either partially met or evolving during the session. Only 10.3% responded "No", indicating that very few participants felt disappointed. This implies that while the event delivery was largely effective, incorporating more interactive or practical components could further strengthen outcomes.
