Introduction

The Department of Commerce organized an activity-based learning session titled “GST Reforms 2025: Next-Gen Tax System for a Better and Simpler India.” The session aimed to provide students with practical insights into the upcoming GST reforms and their implications for businesses and citizens. Activities included a Group Discussion on “GST Reforms 2025 – A Diwali Gift for Common Man & Businesses” and a Debate on “GST Reforms 2025 – Diwali Gift or Political Gimmick?” The session encouraged active participation and critical engagement with the topic.

Objectives

- To enhance students’ understanding of the upcoming GST Reforms 2025 and their economic implications.
- To encourage analytical thinking through discussion and debate on GST’s impact on common citizens and businesses.
- To promote experiential learning by engaging students in activity-based sessions on current fiscal policies.

Session Highlights

- The session began with an overview of GST Reforms 2025, emphasizing the vision for a transparent and simplified tax regime.
- Asst. Prof. Sonal Shah explained key policy updates and their expected influence on the economy.
- She also discussed the political and fiscal dimensions of GST Reforms, encouraging students to connect theory with real-world developments.
- Students actively participated in the Group Discussion and Debate, expressing informed perspectives and analytical viewpoints.
- The session concluded with an open reflection on GST’s role in promoting economic growth and improving ease of doing business in India.

Outcomes

- Students gained conceptual clarity on the structure and impact of GST Reforms 2025.
- The activity enhanced students' communication, reasoning, and teamwork skills through participatory learning.
- Participants developed the ability to critically evaluate fiscal policies and understand their broader socio-economic effects.

Conclusion

The session effectively bridged classroom knowledge with real-world policy understanding. It offered a platform for students to express, analyze, and evaluate government reforms through active learning. The Department of Commerce's initiative fostered critical thinking, collaboration, and awareness about India's evolving taxation landscape under GST 2025.
